Issuance of a development permit does not relieve the applicant from:

- a) complying with all applicable City of Regina bylaws including the Zoning Bylaw; and
- b) complying with all applicable federal and provincial statutes and regulations including The Planning and Development Act, 2007, and
- c) adhering to all specifications and instructions issued by duly authorized officers of the City of Regina in respect of work incidental to the subject matter of this application.

The City of Regina accepts no responsibility for any losses, costs, charges or damages caused by or arising from any action undertaken pursuant to a permit issued under this application.

No construction shall commence without a building permit. A development permit is valid for 2 years from the date of approval.

In order to ensure prompt processing of your application, please make sure that all sections of the form are completed prior to submitting your request. The Development Officer may contact you should they have questions or require additional information.
